IN SUMMARY . . . Statistically Speaking!

1. Total number of individual alumni and alumnae listed in this volume 61,877
2. Total number of all former students listed who are now deceased 10,588
3. Total number of all former students listed and, according to last information, are living 51,289
4. Total number of all former students, living and deceased, who hold degrees of the University of North Carolina 28,079
5. Total number of ex-matriculates, living and deceased, who do not hold degrees of the University 33,798
6. Total number of former students, now deceased, who hold University of North Carolina degrees 3,981
7. Total number of former students, now living, who hold University degrees 24,098
8. Total number of former students, now deceased, who do not hold University degrees 6,607
9. Total number of former students, now living, who do not hold University degrees 27,191
10. Total number of recipients of honorary dgerees 472

* * *

Of all former students of the University of North Carolina 83 percent are living. Of the total living alumni, 60 percent reside in North Carolina according to latest addresses. Half of the living alumni of the University have attended the University since the outbreak of World War II. If the Navy Pre-Flight cadets stationed in Chapel Hill during World War II should be counted in any of these statistics or listed as alumni, the total "alumni population" would be increased by some 20,000. Also, there are large numbers of other persons who have attended summer sessions, short courses and institutes, or have taken correspondence courses who in a sense might be counted as members of the University alumni family. Considerably more than a hundred thousand persons might be tallied in all categories.

A FINAL WORD

The compilers of this Alumni Directory would be the last to support the accuracy of every fact indicated in this book. Mistakes in spelling and fact seem to have a way of striking in the least expected places in a roster of more than sixty thousand names. Also, in any use to which this Directory is put it should be remembered that even the accurate addresses and data do not necessarily remain the same. So—in a final word: "Pardon any errors!"
